

MRS. SARAH DELANO ROOSEVELT

Mr. Hull remembers her as his "warm, personal friend, a remarkable woman who had consecrated her all to her son and her country." Of the President's wife Mr. Hull writes: "Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was further to the left than I was, and my contacts with her were very limited, though sufficient to enable me to appreciate her ability."

INSTALLMENT II

OFTEN had occasion to see the President in the early morning, when he was still in bed. Usually he had already been up, eat breakfast, and returned to bed to conduct the first business of day. I found his bed strewn with newspapers, documents, letters, and telegrams. I pulled up a chair nearby and we began to discuss the question at hand. This practice continued throughout years I was at the state department.

In general, I was not a social intimate of the President. I was invited to White House dinners, except on official occasions, or weekend excursions on Mr. Roosevelt's yacht or visit to Hyde Park. Mr. Roosevelt respected my determination not to dissipate energies in social affairs but to conserve them for the events of office. Moreover, I was frankly glad not to be invited into the White House groups where so often the "liberal" game was played on an extreme basis. I was known not to be an extreme liberal semi-radical as were some of those who were close about the President, and my presence in their gatherings would have been embarrassing to me as to them.

Enjoyed Luncheon Sessions

Of far more importance to me were the pleasant, quiet luncheons had alone with the President on scores of occasions, when for an hour at least we could exchange shirt-sleeve opinions without the necessity to guard every word and watch every comma.

My relations with the President's mother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, were most cordial. In my opinion she was a remarkable man, who had consecrated her all to her son and her country. I first learned to know her through the information brought to me by her frequently supporting me and my public views. She was a warm personal friend and in our conversations exhibited at all times a wide intelligence and excellent understanding of international questions and conditions.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was further to the left than I was, and my contacts with her were very limited, though sufficient to enable me to appreciate her ability. She was a valiant fighter for the realization of peace and development of a wide influence in the United States and other countries, peace and other humanitarian activities.

I am convinced that the President was completely frank with me. Although I did not attend his military conferences, the question was also one involving foreign affairs—or domestic conferences, I never asked him to respond with full information. I was not instantly and unreservedly responsive to his information. I was not instantly and unreservedly responsive to his information. I was not instantly and unreservedly responsive to his information.

The President and I conferred with regard to the appointment of my immediate assistants in the state department and of our ambassadors and ministers abroad. As time went on, the President made a number of suggestions for the state of the government.

COUNCIL SEEKS CENTER, MAIN
ROUTE CHANGESAsks for Re-Routing of 95
and 4 To Lessen Traffic
Jam.

A resolution requesting the state director of highways to re-route state routes 95 and 4 was adopted Monday night by city council in a move aimed at reducing traffic congestion at the intersection of Center and Main streets.

The traffic problem is one of four major projects on which Mayor Harry L. Dowler has asked city council for action during the coming year.

Pointing to the heavy volume of traffic at the Center and Main street intersection, Mayor Dowler said traffic surveys have shown an average of 23,000 vehicles crossing the intersection in a 24-hour period.

Re-routing of state routes 95 and 4 away from the city's busy corner will relieve the present traffic density to a considerable degree.

Proposed Changes

The plan calls for Route 95 to continue west from the intersection of South Main and Church streets to Olney avenue, then north to Center street. The present route turns north on South Main street at Church, extends up to the main intersection, then west on Center street.

The plan for Route 4 would re-route southbound traffic while northbound traffic would follow the present routing. Southbound traffic would turn west from North Main street at George street, proceeding over to North Prospect street and down Prospect street to West Columbia street, picking up the present routing. Traffic on Route 4 now comes straight down Main street across Center street and continues south as far as Columbia street before turning west.

Final action will be taken by the state highway director after the state conducts a public hearing on the city request.

Other Council Proceedings

Other legislation approved by council included these resolutions: authorization to city solicitor to compromise and settle claims of Marion city hospital against Darrin H. Gamble for $250; confirmation of the appointment by Mayor Dowler of Henry A. Mickley to the sinking fund commission for a four-year term ending Jan. 1, 1952. Also approved was the emergency measure authorizing the city solicitor to settle and pay the claim of Ernest Herr of near Marion in the amount of $8. Herr's car was struck Dec. 31 by a city police cruiser, on East Center street.

Wants Cruiser Marked

Councilman D. R. Biggart of the Fourth ward scored the lack of identification on city police cruisers. Pointing out that council previously had approved expenditures for lettering on police cars, he asked council to see that the job was done. It was his opinion that all law enforcement vehicles should be plainly marked as well as all operated by the city, he said.

Mr. Biggart reported also on the parking situation in the business district. Calling the situation "desperate" in regard to lack of adequate parking space, he recommended installation of additional meters on a number of streets including the following: both sides of Oak street north to the Big Four tracks on Mill street east as far as State street, on Church street east to Vine street, on West Center street west to Garden street on both sides, and on the east side of Orchard street from Center street south to Church street.

Newton Cunningham, councilman-at-large, made a suggestion policy—a fact I deprecated in my talks with Mr. Roosevelt—I do not recall any instance of any consequence in which the views and course of the state department were seriously interfered with by this practice.

THE PRESIDENT pursued one practice that was frequently disturbing to the department—that of sending special envoys abroad as his personal representatives to talk with the heads of foreign governments or to perform certain missions. Among them were Harry Hopkins, Henry Wallace, W. Averell Harriman, Patrick J. Hurley, William J. Donovan and Joseph E. Davies, all of whom went on one or more missions. Sending these special envoys tended in many instances to create havoc with our ambassadors or ministers in the capitals they visited. Nevertheless their missions rarely interfered with the strictly diplomatic efforts of the government.

The President and I conferred with regard to the appointment of my immediate assistants in the state department and of our ambassadors and ministers abroad. As time went on, the President made a number of suggestions for the state of the government.

KENTON, Jan. 27—Wrecking crews labored frantically today to restore traffic over the Toledo-Cincinnati division of the Big Four railroad after 20 cars loaded with coal were wrecked and scattered tons of coal along the right-of-way at a main grade intersection in downtown Kenton last night.

No one was injured, but Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, 35, suffered shock when the end of one coal car catapulted into her second-floor apartment living room above the Kenton Bottling Works, which was badly damaged. She was in the adjoining room.

W. H. Dickinson, Kenton Big Four agent, said the railroad estimated $150,000 damage. Sixteen of the coal cars were demolished. He said traffic was being re-routed over the Toledo and Ohio Central division through Kenton to Ridgeway and Bellefontaine.

Traffic had not been restored at midnight last night. The wreck was caused by a broken arch bar on one of the coal cars. Three hundred feet of track were torn up by the wreck.

Truman Names Rail
Emergency Board

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—President Truman today created an emergency board to investigate a wide dispute between the nation's railroads and three unions representing about 125,000 operating workers.

The unions have called a strike for Feb. 1. Under the railway-labor act the President is empowered to appoint a fact-finding board which has 30 days to hold hearings to report back to the White House. A 30-day "cooling off" period must elapse before a strike can be called.

Tax-Cut Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—The house ways and means committee voted 15 to 9 in a straight party split today to let the Republican $6,300,000,000 tax-slashing measure. That sends the bill to the house where a vote is expected next Monday.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—Republicans moved to ram their $6,300,000,000 tax-slashing bill through the house ways and means committee today "as is."

Democrats, outnumbered 15 to 10, planned an apparently futile bid to hold the cut to a lower figure by proposing amendments.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) predicted the committee majority would beat down any changes and approve the measure as he wrote it.

The bill will go to the house for debate on Thursday. The house showdown vote is set for next Monday.

The Knutson proposal would: Raise personal exemptions from $500 to $600.

Extend to all states the community property principle under which husbands and wives may divide the family income equally for tax reporting purposes, thus obtaining lower rates.

Give percentage tax reductions ranging from 30 per cent in the lowest income bracket to 10 per cent in the upper brackets.

The measure would relieve about 7,000,000 persons from further income tax payments.

Democrats conceded that the bill through the house. The GOP majority, with a 245 to 183 majority, have the votes to cram the bill through the house. The GOP majority, with a 245 to 183 majority, have the votes to cram the bill through the house.

Pollak Steel Co. Has Unusual
Family Employment Record

An unusual employment record recently has been revealed in the Marion plant of the Pollak Steel Co. mill here.

Recently officials of the company began delving into their employment records and came up with the fact that 26 father-and-son combinations are employed there. In addition to this bit of information they also discovered three mother-son and two grandfather and grandson combinations on the company's payroll.

The oldest employee whose son has followed him to work at the Pollak plant is Ed Snell, a foreman, who will round out 30 years continuous service with the company next month. His son is Ervin Snell, inspector, who has been with the mill eight years and four months. They have a total employment record of 58 years and 3 months.

Second and third place in the father and son combinations go to Jim Ruby and son Wayne with a total service of 41 years and Harry Morris and son Lawrence with 40 years and 4 months.

Started in Cincinnati

Mr. Snell first went to work for the 83-year-old company in February, 1897, at the Cincinnati plant, nearly a quarter of a century before the Marion plant began operations.

While most sons have followed their fathers into employment at the steel mill, the situation is reversed in the case of two mother-son combinations. William and David Palmer have nearly 5 years with the company while their mother Mrs. Blanche Palmer has worked for the Pollak company 2 years and 9 months. Homer Watson, 4 years and 10 months, also was employed before his mother, Mrs. Ethel Watson, 3 years and 9 months. Only mother with a longer work record than her son is Mrs. Maude Williamson, 3 years and 10 months. Her son, John Williamson Jr., has been employed 3 years and 3 months.

The grandfather and grandson combinations are: Omar Eaton 22 years and 3 months, and Rex O'Brien, 7 years and 7 months; and Waldo Peddicord, 13 years and 8 months, and Jack Baker, 7 months.

More Than 483 Years

In all the various family combinations have been with Pollak 693 years and 3 months. In the list of father and son combinations is included the names of Julian A. Pollak of Cincinnati and David Pollak. The elder Pollak has a period of service of more than 41 years and he now is president of the company. The son, David, has been employed at the plant here 2 years.

Complete List

In assembling the employment records only the last period of continuous employment was considered. There follows a list of father and son combinations, with fathers named first, and their years of service:

Ed Snell 49, Ervin Snell 8; Jim Ruby 28, Wayne Ruby 13; Harry Morris 28, Lawrence Morris 13; Lester Slane 28, Hughie Slane 8; (Turn to POLLAK, Page 9)

Marion Gets Warmer Weather,
But Another Cold Wave Coming

Marion and the rest of Ohio enjoyed some relief today from the winter's coldest weather as the temperature rose to 12 above zero this morning, but weathermen warned another cold wave is moving in from the northwest.

The season's lowest mark still stands at four below zero recorded yesterday morning. Last night's low temperature was about 8 above zero by unofficial readings. A forecast of mostly cloudy and colder tonight with snow flurries gave warning that the third cold wave in a week was on its way.

The continuing cold brought new hazards as a fire here and an explosion in nearby Ashley barbershop resulted from efforts to thaw frozen water pipes.

Firemen from Central station answered a call at 2:50 a. m. today to the home of Richard McCurdy of 223 West Columbia street and found the wall and siding of an upstairs room burning.

Mr. McCurdy told firemen that he had been using an electric heater to thaw out a frozen corner of the pipe on the northeast corner of the house. He said that he left the heater and a high-powered lamp focused on the pipes while he went downstairs, and when he returned the wall was afire. Firemen were on the call 43 minutes, and no loss was reported.

Temperatures in the 20's were general in most areas at midnight, and thermometers dropped only 10 to 15 degrees in the pre-dawn hours. This was in sharp contrast to yesterday morning's sub-zero readings.

NEW BUDGET
OFFICIAL ALSO
AMONG GROUPAgriculture Dept. Announces
List After Suspending
Three Employees.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—A senator, an ambassador and the newly-appointed assistant director of the budget were listed by the agriculture department today as traders in commodity markets since Jan. 1, 1946.

A new list of speculators made public by Secretary Anderson included the names of:

Frank Pace Jr., who has yet to take the oath as assistant budget director.

James Bruce, ambassador to Argentina.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.).

Mrs. Edith Thomas, his wife.

Miss Beth Gage, his secretary.

Harry C. Westphal, secretary to Senator Bushfield (R-SD).

Walter S. Salant, an economist with the president's council of economic advisers.

His brother, William A. Salant, assistant chief of economic affairs for the state department.

Their mother, Mrs. Josephine S. Salant, New York.

Winthrop G. Brown, chief of the division of commercial policy of the state department and a former lend-lease official.

Department Suspends Three

The list was released for publication a few hours after the agriculture department announced that it has suspended three of its own employees for speculating in commodities and is investigating about 20 others.

The announcement was made last night by Jessie B. Gilmer, administrator of the production and marketing administration, which handles government purchases for foreign relief and price support purposes.

Gilmer said "none of the three suspended was in position to have any inside information as to government buying."

Today's new list included 738 traders reported by brokers as employed by the federal government or as members of immediate families of federal employees.

Anderson last month requested brokers to report names of such persons in the markets between Jan. 1, 1946, and Dec. 15, 1947. No details of their operations were given.

Named To Budget Post

Pace, who served as executive assistant to Robert E. Hannegan while the latter was postmaster general, was appointed recently by President Truman to the No. 2 spot in the budget bureau, but has not yet taken the oath of office.

He told newsmen he had speculated in cotton and eggs and had made $1,300 to $1,700, "but certainly not as the result of any inside information." He said he had been in the markets since February, 1947.

State department officials pointed out that Bruce, a Baltimore businessman, has been ambassador only since last July 18.

Walter S. Salant said, transaction carried on in his name were made by another member of his family, who had handled financial investments for himself and his brother since they were minors.

He said he didn't know a thing about how the markets operate and "lost money."

Winthrop G. Brown, told a reporter he made about $2,715 in

Westinghouse Designs "Packaged" Locomotive

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 27—A "packaged" electric locomotive which could be constructed for either switching, passenger or heavy freight service by putting together identical power units in "building block" style was described today by Westinghouse Electric Corp. engineers.

"Complete standardization of mechanical and electric parts would make this type locomotive the cheapest to build and operate, and the most powerful for its weight of any other now on the rails," Westinghouse told a convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Key unit in the proposed "building block design" is a four-wheeled truck carrying two electric motors of 489 horsepower apiece.

"For the smallest type of locomotive a single cab would fit over two such trucks," Westinghouse Engineer W. A. Brecht. "For bigger locomotives we would increase the number of trucks and lengthen the cab until we reach a 16-axle locomotive with a maximum rail horsepower of 10,000."

EXPLAINS WORK OF METAL PRODUCTS CO.

Gilbert E. Herr Speaks in Lions Club Series.

Gilbert E. Herr, vice president and general manager of the Marion Metal Products Co., was guest speaker at the Lions club weekly luncheon meeting Monday at Hotel Harding. This was another in a series of programs being presented in which talks are given regarding businesses in Marion.

In explaining the work of the Metal Products Co. which makes dump bodies for trucks, Mr. Herr stated that the first dump bodies were developed between 1918 and 1919, after which, in the early 1920's, the gravity dump bodies were instituted. In 1926, mechanical dump units were introduced, and two years later, in 1928-29, the hydraulic dump units were developed.

Fifteen other companies in the United States make the same type of equipment as the Marion Metal Products Co., Mr. Herr said. The present day production of dump bodies and hoists Mr. Herr explained, are of all sizes and kinds. He stated there are approximately 25 various types of each unit, bodies and hoists, with units to fit 30 different makes of trucks and 17 different makes of trailers.

The local company has 275 shop employees and 50 office employees. Dr. LeRoy W. Kohlhorst was named to serve on the membership committee by Robert Morrison, president.

Cubs present were Robert Ruth and Owen Meddies. Guests of the club were Don Hilrich of Dayton and M. L. Barnett of Mansfield.

P. SMITH PRAISES FRENCH FRANC ACT

Marion International Monetary Fund Is Error.

Representative Frederick C. Smith of Marion, Ohio, paid tribute today to the French franc act, which he said "has off" the International Monetary Fund out of the window. According to a news dispatch from Washington today, the act, which was passed by the House of Representatives, particularly the French workers, those who produce the necessities of life, had been an invaluable service to the workers of all countries. By their action, the act has made the value of the franc comparable to its true or market value in spite of the opposition.

The repudiation by France of the International Monetary Fund comes as a surprise to those of us who expected it and said so. It is a repudiation of one of the American one-dollar notes, which are upon them. It is doubtful, never, that it will because we are near suggestions for an international monetary conference. I suppose, what was promised the International Monetary Fund would accomplish but failed.

It is too early to know just what the international repercussions will be from the action taken by France. All we can say now is that the printing press money over the world is boiling. It is this might be a sign that a serious movement has been started to put a torch to all the fiat money in the world and restore the people's gold for making their exchanges and settling their contracts.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Strine entertained the Co-workers class of the Greenwood Evangelical United Brethren church Thursday night at their home east of Marion. Cozy Is Here!

Cozy is short for coquidiosis, the chick killer. It's likely to start around water fountains. Chickies pick it up and spread it, and you have an epidemic in the brooder house. In rainy weather, or when litter is damp, it spreads faster.

Control is the Dr. Hem treatment for cozy. Used in time, Control will help keep coquidiosis from getting started. If the disease gets a foothold, Control will help reduce losses.

Add Control to the feed—3 lbs. to 100 lbs. of mash. Costs 1/2¢ to 1¢ a chick. Keep it on hand.

Where Good Food and Good People Meet

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

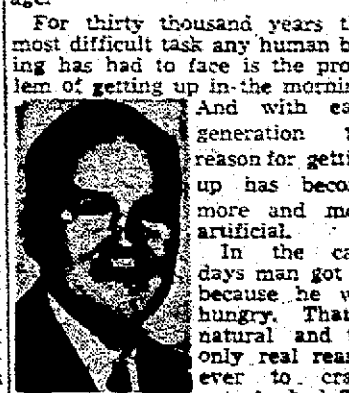

NEW YORK

I WILL believe in science this day somebody invents a pleasant way to get up in the morning.

Until then all its victories over time and space are mere hollow mockery, creating new urgencies to force a man out of a warm bed to meet the chaos of the machine age.

For thirty thousand years the most difficult task any human being has had to face is the problem of getting up in the morning. And with each generation the reason for getting up has become more and more artificial.

In the cave days man got up because he was hungry. That is natural and the only real reason ever to crawl out of a bed. The shook the dew off his beard, grabbed up his club and called to his neighbors. Together they went off to the waterhole, bashed an antelope or a buffalo over the noggin and dragged it home.

The wives cooked it, and the menfolk were through for the day. They could sit around and chew bones, swap lies, watch the children grow up or just fall asleep in the sun.

Today a man rises and has to brush his teeth and shave before his wife will agree to serve breakfast. He also has to comb his hair—if the worry of modern life hasn't removed it all—put on a clean shirt and scuff his shoes along the back of his trousers so they'll look freshly shined (this saves him enough to buy a package of cigarettes).

NOTE THAT ALL this effort has to be expended even before he sets out for the waterhole where he earns his food—his office or workshop. To get there he must drive a motor car and find a place to park it, or ride a noisy crowded subway-bus or trolley.

Morose and wondering why he ever bothered to get up, he spends eight hours earning his share of the antelope, breathing borrowed air traded back and forth with his neighbors. If he halts to spin a fancy fable—lo, the hot breath of the straw boss is on his neck. When he returns at night, home-sick for his lost jungle freedom, he must resolve his family's conflicts with civilization—junior's troubles with algebra, sister's demand to go to a movie, mama's complaint against the high cost of antelope.

THE WEARY MAN sags into tired slumber—and wanders in dream the old wind-stirred forest paths where nothing more fearsome than a sabre-toothed tiger could waylay him.

It is significant, I think, that the next morning no pleas of wife or children, no stirring of his own conscience, will get him out of bed. He would rather lie there and starve.

No, years ago it was found something else was needed to make a man rise and face the horror of a mechanical world. The solution was a mechanical contrivance—the alarm clock.

Only to still its terrible jangle will the modern man reluctantly get up, paw the gum out of his eyes, and face the lesser noises of the day. But he is a shaken, pitiful thing.

He fears the alarm clock more than he did the sabre-toothed tiger in the time when the world was a beautiful garden of danger instead of a nettle bed of annoyances.

If science really wants to help modern man, it should develop a capsule he can swallow at night, knowing that by some dark chemical magic it will make him leap out of bed at daylight, eager to cope with a world of wheels within wheels—that never stop turning.

Research but dawdles if it can't produce a "get up" capsule—in at least four pleasant-tasting flavors.

PILES ARE NEVER "MILD" DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by irritating, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown, tired feeling and general nervous irritability. Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom to the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

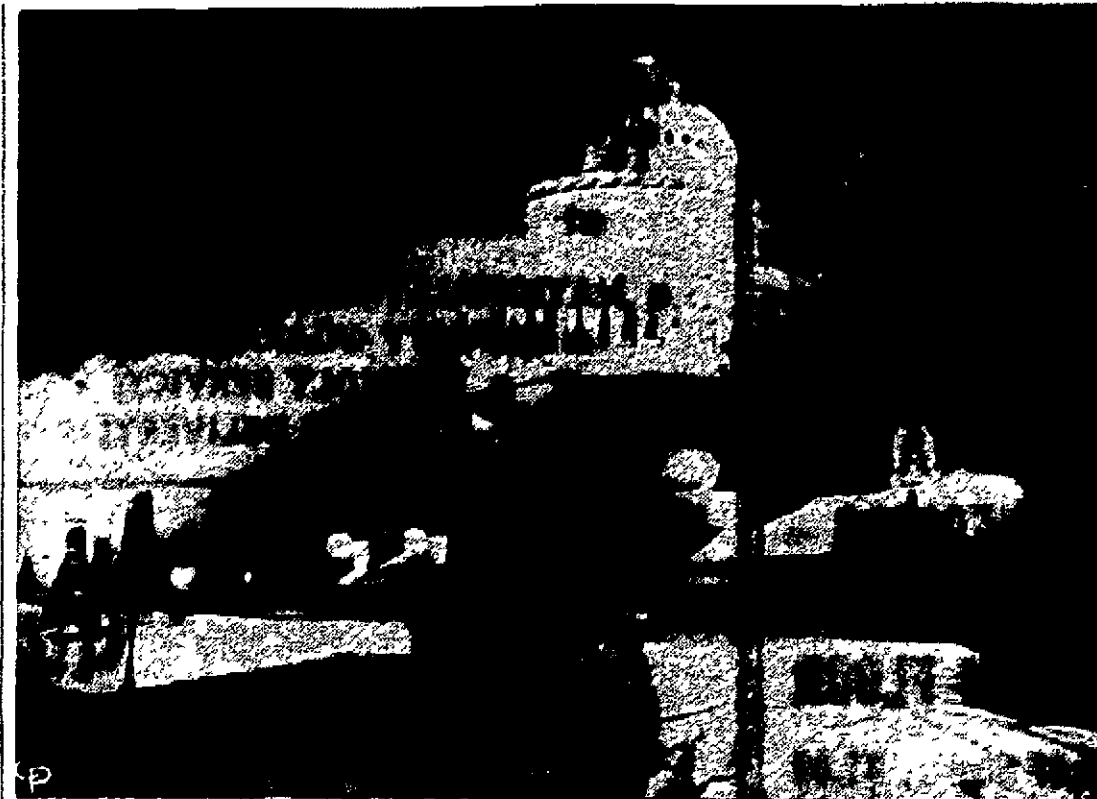

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free. No Appointment Needed.

FBI Agent Who Helped Trap Dillinger Dies

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27—Edward J. Dowd, 56, FBI agent who aided in setting up the trap that led to the killing of John Dillinger, bank robber and outlaw, in Chicago in July, 1934, died last night at his suburban Lakewood home.

Dowd assisted in planning for the "Lady in Red" to point out Dillinger outside a Chicago movie house. The gangster was shot when he tried to escape from the trap.

Dowd worked on many famous cases in his 24 years with the FBI. He arrested "Boston Blackie," a jewel thief and confidence man, near Pittsburgh. He helped prepare evidence that led to the conviction of Al Capone for income tax fraud in 1931. He also aided in capture of "Baby Face" Nelson, "Pretty Boy" Floyd and "Marty" Durkin.

The Gold Dilemma

REPORTS that Canada is planning to pay subsidies to gold producers renew old doubts about gold's place in the economy of a world sharply divided between "have" and "have-not" nations.

Canada is eager to mine all the gold it can, because the United States pays for it in scarce dollars at the rate of $35 an ounce. Yet gold serves no useful purpose. It goes into a hole at Fort Knox while Canada's workers might better be mining lead, iron or copper or turning out newsprint.

In Russia, South Africa, South America, the United States, wherever they work, gold miners contribute nothing to the world's real wealth. In addition, every dollar's worth of gold taken in from abroad by the treasury means not only a dollar's worth of usable goods exported but another ounce of the inflationary head of steam we are building up. Gold purchases increase commercial bank gold reserves at the rate of 6 for 1. In other words, for every dollar of gold in its reserve, a bank may issue $6 of credit in the form of loans or investments. Thus the 3 billion of gold we buy annually represents an inflationary boost of 21 billion.

The role gold plays in the world's economy isn't always clear to the layman, if indeed it is to the economist. But if that layman is a poker player, he might sum up the situation by asking, "If one player gets all the chips, why not start playing for cigarettes?" That's essentially what Bernard Baruch suggested when he proposed that we offer to buy all the useful materials and goods that the world has to offer and for which there is no other market.

How Favorite a Son?

HAROLD E. STASSEN's bid for Ohio delegates in the May primary will answer this question: How favorite a son is Senator Taft at this point in his long buildup for the GOP presidential nomination?

It's less a matter of how many delegates Stassen can pick up, because the odds are against him on that, than of how many votes he can pick up. A strong show of strength would be a boost for Stassen backers in the Republican convention next June and a kick in the teeth for Taft backers.

The Stassenites then would have evidence to back the claim that their man is a potential winner if nominated. Together with whatever strength he shows in other states, they could use the Ohio results to prove Stassen has made hay during his campaign for the nomination.

Senator Taft's backers, on the other hand, have good reason to be afraid that Stassen will give their man's critics a chance to express themselves in the primary—and Mr. Taft, of all politicians, is known by the critics he has made. He has been in the thick of political controversy so long friends and foes are well known.

The foes are his handicap in the race for the GOP nomination. If nominated, his opposition would be ready-made. Stassen proposes to test the extent of this opposition in Mr. Taft's own state. The former governor of Minnesota has nothing to lose and everything to gain. Senator Taft has a lot to lose, almost nothing to gain by having his favorite-son status challenged.

Exhibit Belgium

BY THE testimony of witnesses ranging from statisticians to roving correspondents, Belgium is setting the pace for European recovery. It has regained its prewar rate of economic production and apparently is going to move ahead to higher levels. Its people are reported to be well fed and well clothed in comparison with the British, for instance. What is more important, they are reported to be eager to work because their government wisely has steered clear of the psychological mistake of following war with social upheaval.

Belgium is working for recovery. It has put the needs of people before the desires of ideologists. No bitter dreams of revenge are being satisfied. Business is brisk, bad news for the Communists. Belgium has them, of course. Every country has them. But the one thing that baffles them is to run up against people with something more important to do than become slaves to the masters of a super-state.

Russian Roulette, U. S. Style

AN ILLINOIS prosecutor is pondering what to do in the case of a young man killed playing "Russian roulette."

This grim game involves whirling the barrel of a revolver with one bullet in it, then holding the weapon to the temple and pressing the trigger. The odds are in the player's favor, but when he loses, he loses all. In the Illinois case, the prosecutor wonders if the young man's convivial companions aren't criminally liable for his death.

There is an American variant of Russian roulette. The drinking driver plays it. When he wins, he goes out to the garage in the morning to see if he brought home his car unscathed. When the double zero comes up, he goes home in a hearse.

The amount of coal and oil combined produced in the world every year is equal to about a ton for every human inhabitant of the earth.

Military Occupation at Home
By RAYMOND MOLEY

Civilian Affairs Influenced by Army and Navy.

THE report of Albert Einstein and a group of distinguished Americans on the dangers of military influence points up what many thoughtful people have been saying for some time. Hardly anyone who visits Washington these days fails to be struck by the rapid transformation of our civil establishment into a military center. This trend has proceeded with increasing momentum since the end of the war. It probably has not reached its peak, and it certainly carries with it the possibilities of real danger.

During the war, professional Army and Navy men were intensely occupied in their own services. Thousands of civilians with special training moved into responsible military positions. The civil identity of the latter became merged in the military. They acquired military titles, which most of them greatly cherished even after their return to civil life. Their liking for military habits of administration and conduct in many cases became permanent. Authority becomes a pleasant atmosphere in which to live.

It is not strange that many of these quasi-military people, as well as numerous career officers, have sought active berths in the civil departments of government. The infiltration of the civil establishment by the military has been greatly accelerated by the obvious love of the President for the military. This trait is probably rooted in Mr. Truman's military career in the World War and also in a busy President's desire for an easier method of running an administration. Admiral Leahy is deeply entrenched in the White House, and General Marshall takes over foreign affairs.

Generals Become Ambassadors
Generals become ambassadors and ministers in important foreign posts. Everywhere the influence of the joint chiefs of staff is felt. Two great temporary dependencies, Germany and Japan, are ruled by generals. Minor positions in the great departments and establishments are filled by former commanders in arms. Many former New Dealers who, under their cloak of liberalism, really believe in an authoritarian state, slip almost unnoticed into strategic advisory posts. Generals have become formidable possibilities for the presidency.

Under the influence of the Army, Latin American countries receive quantities of arms made in the U.S.A. This latter fact greatly strengthens reactionary governments down there and makes the progress of democracy much more difficult.

Foreign policy is no longer a civilian function, as it was even under Seward in the Civil War. Foreign policy is heavily influenced by the military and, to a very important degree, it enjoys the privilege of military censorship.

Tendency New In U. S.

It is too early to suggest the parallel of the Roman Empire ruled by the Praetorian Guard. But it is not too early to take note of a tendency which has never before so heavily influenced American public policy.

Under the regime, the military greatly influences education, scientific research, public works and many other fields of civil life. It enters business through government regulations, and it lays a heavy hand on the agencies through which ideas and opinions are disseminated.

We might not agree with the Einstein group on military training, but we can take serious note of its warning concerning the military invasion of civil government.

This is a New Kind of Farm Relief

Burglars last week stole $18,000 in cash from the home of a Georgia farmer.

That'll teach him to put the egg money in a safe place.

Eighteen thousand dollars in a Georgia farmhouse. . . I can remember when there wasn't that much cash in the whole state, except maybe in Confederate money.

But that was back when peanuts sold for two hundred dollars a ton only in cellophane bags with salt and people called butter "the golden spread" on account of its color instead of its cost.

Yes sir, with the price of feed at an all-time high, today's farmer, surveying a lot full of hay, has cause to comment thoughtfully: "Brother, that ain't money!"

In fact, it's about gotten to the place that the farmer's daughter has to beware not of traveling salesmen so much as fortune hunters.

Honesty Is the Best Policy
By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON—In the higher ranks of the Administration, a debate of the most far-reaching import is now in quiet progress. Will the real facts of the world situation at last be placed before the country and the Congress, with all the almost irresistible weight of Secretary Marshall's authority? Or will the opposition to the European recovery program be allowed to have its way, for sheer lack of understanding of the consequences? These are the alternative courses now being discussed.

This debate was precipitated by rather belated preliminary checks, which disclosed a distinctly bleak Congressional situation. There is not the slightest sense of urgency on Capitol Hill today. As of today, action on ERP is likely to be greatly delayed, the program will probably be festooned with unworkable restrictions, and the amount appropriated is expected to be cut to somewhere near the four billion dollar level advocated by former President Hoover.

A final survey is now being made, so that the most dependable data on the outlook in Congress may be laid before Secretary Marshall on his return from this survey. But the results of this survey are unlikely to give new causes for optimism. Therefore, the American policy-makers are discussing the choice outlined above.

There is only one way to rescue ERP from the effects of Congressional indifference. That way is to arouse an adequate sense of urgency in Congress and the country. Equally, there is only one way to arouse this sense of urgency. Secretary Marshall must at last tell Congress and the country what are the real motives of American policy.

Here there appears a strange anomaly, which the American policy-makers are free to confess. In the great American decisions, from the British loan down to ERP, moral, humanitarian and of course economic motives have been given due weight. But the really compelling motives for every one of these decisions have been motives of pure political and strategic self-interest.

There are no villains in the disagreement about the French franc but only a pointed reminder and warning of the disorder which exists and must increase in a disunited Europe. Separately each nation is forced to take measures which, though a temporary relief to itself, aggravate the troubles of its neighbors.

Last summer the British were forced to suspend the convertibility of sterling which was stipulated in their credit agreement with us and was implied in many of the commercial agreements. They had no choice. But the French and Italians were hurt.

Now the French have had to deal with their currency outside the stipulations of the International Monetary Fund. They, too, had no choice. But the British will be hurt.

The event shows how necessary was Mr. Bevin's cautious and hesitant commitment to work towards European union, and yet how belated. Six months have elapsed since the Marshall offer of aid to a cooperating Europe. During these six months of mounting financial disorder concerted measures have not been agreed to within the international monetary fund or outside it.

We have made more progress here toward providing the aid than Europe has made toward providing the cooperation.

Twenty Years Ago

It was Friday, Jan. 27, 1928. It was announced that final masonry work on the Harding Memorial would be completed in February when a massive granite slab would be laid as a final covering of the sepulchre holding the bodies of President and Mrs.

Check On Soviets

"We did all these things," one of the wisest men in the government remarked the other day, "because if we hadn't done them, or had done even a little less, the Soviets would have been able to carry out their program of expansion and domination. If the Soviets ever carry out their program, we shall face a Europe and Asia in Soviet hands, and we shall have no choice but to fight or to surrender."

As anyone familiar with the practical workings of Congress must realize, self-interest is the great Congressional persuader.

Yet these real motives of American self-interest, which would quickly convince Congress, have never been fully confessed or explained by President Truman, or Secretary Byrnes, or Secretary Marshall, or anyone else in authority. They have been hinted at, or suggested by shadowy generalities. But mere hints and sugges-

One Answer To Russia

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO
It was Thursday, Jan. 27, 1938. Any possibility of early peace between organized labor's warring factions were swept away when William Green, head of the AFL rejected a proposal by John L. Lewis, CIO leader, to merge the two organizations.

Slight moderation in the temperature and the falling of the wind which had drifted highways eased the weather situation here, although weather observers warned that the cold would not break until the following day. A low registered 18 while the maximum was 43.

George Whysall, manager of the Marion Water Co. since 1924, announced he was filing an application with the company for retirement some time in the spring.

Oysters were selling at 25 cents a pint, bacon 13 cents a pound, fancy pork chops 19 cents a pound, head lettuce, large, 5 cents, coal from $5.75 to $8 per ton, and men's suits were on sale $15 to $19, with extra pants at $2.50 and $3.50. Kay Francis was starring in "First Lady" at the Ohio theater, Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone, Rosalind Russell were featured in "Man-Proof" at the Palace, "The Duke Comes Back" was the bill of fare at the Marion and the State was featuring Jack Holt in "Roaring Timber" and Charles Starrett in "Two Fisted Sheriff."

Charles E. Curtis was presented the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce plaque for his work in reclaiming and beautifying the old Quarry Street cemetery at the tenth annual banquet of the junior group. The annual award to a younger citizen, likewise for distinguished civic services during the preceding year, was preserved to Cloyce O'Brien, who served as chairman of the Junior Chamber committee on the "Get Out the Vote" campaign. Walter Maxwell was installed as the new president of the chamber.

Harding, Hoke Donithen, chairman of the Harding Memorial association executive committee, said he had been notified that the covering, Norwegian granite, had been prepared by the Harrison Granite Co. of New York City and would be shipped Jan. 31.

Fire Chief McFarland announced following a conference of the board of directors of the Ohio Fire Chiefs' association held here, that Marion had been selected for the annual association convention June 5 and 6. Chief McFarland was president of the association.

Mrs. Jennie Kulencamp of South Prospect street returned from a visit in Urbana.

City Clerk S. H. Keller prepared a tabulation of tax figures from government reports showing that Marion's rate of $23.89 a thousand on real estate was just about the average for cities of this size throughout the country.

Looking devices on the strong box of the 48-year-old safe at the Marion county treasurer's office became stubborn and could not be operated when time came to start business in the morning. James H. Eymon, Marion attorney, who was an expert in manipulation of safes and locks was called and succeeded in getting the equipment working after six hours.

Europe Needs Financial Unity

The Once Over
By H. I. Phillips

The White House Pup Issue

WELL, it seems that the little puppy that reached the White House a couple of weeks ago and was properly photographed there, is out. The President's physician has taken custody of it. Mrs. Truman having put her foot down and declared firmly against the housebreaking task.

This will cost Harry a good many dog lover votes, but will also win him the support of innumerable housewives who appreciate the job of bringing up a young puppy. Housebreaking a pup is an ordeal anywhere. In the White House it must be extra tough.

The bigger the place the more room a pooch has to operate. It is impossible to man all the vulnerable points. Even a "West Wall" is possible only when the defenses are stretched out pretty thin.

In the average home no matter what the dog is doing he is not infringing on historic territory or despoiling bastions of tradition.

The housewife in such a home never hears the startled cry of "Look! That pup has been under Lincoln's bed!" Or, "That rug belonged to Dolly Madison!"

Mrs. Truman is a First Lady who would do much for her country, and we are behind her in her attitude that it is asking too much in expecting her to follow "Feller" around.

The life of a First Lady is hectic enough without being constantly forced to yell, "Harry, is your turn to take Feller out!" She can't be expected to neglect a tea to the diplomats' wives with a curt, "Sorry, but I've a feeling that darned pup is in the Blue Room again."

A puppy, especially an unbroken one, is a real problem. And it is one that can't be touched by any Marshall Plan, Hoover and Dulles can't help. This is one problem even Baruch can't clear up.

Turning the dog over to Dr. Graham could be the best way out. The doctor deserved a little punishment. Maybe he doesn't know Feller isn't housebroken.

At any rate we hear the GOP is capitalizing on the issue and will have a plank guaranteeing more patience with pups. We wonder how Hank Wallace stands? We will bet that he thinks the dog could be housebroken in no time if we cooperated more with Russia.

"There is absolutely no justification for any assumption that there will be a serious meat shortage in 1948. There will be an adequate supply on the shelves unless there is price control with all its past harassments"—Willard LaRoe, counsel for the National Independent Meat Packers.

Beware of Chairs
By TRUMAN TWILL

CHAIRS began when a cave man began to sit on a shelf of rock and dangle his feet. His favorite rock soon became known as Papa's chair and hard luck to the cave kiddies if they were using it when the old man came home after a hard day chasing dinosaurs.

In the course of time Mama also had a favorite place to sit, and even the kiddies had their own little shelves of rock and favorite tree stumps. From such humble beginnings came modern chairs, with upholstery, reclining backs and special features.

There is still a Papa's chair, which can be picked out because it always is the most comfortable one. Mama's chair isn't quite so comfortable, because it is the one that Papa didn't like so he lets Mama sit in it. The kiddies also have their own special chairs in some cases, but these are useless because they would rather sit in grownup chairs that are too big for them.

Chairs are of various kinds, but are chiefly divided between those made to sit in comfortably and those made to sit in uncomfortably. The latter are more numerous and are divided as between antiques, which are not supposed to be sat in any more anyway because they will fall apart in a few years, and moderns, which will become antiques in another 50 years, heaven forbid.

The moderns range from crude wooden contraptions known as undertaker chairs, which are designed to make the sitter want to get up and go away as soon as possible, to cunningly contrived platforms with built-in features that wear down the occupant by slow degrees. In fact, he may not realize what has happened to him until he falls off in a faint.

Then there are the chairs that once may have been comfortable and still look that way, but have developed cases of lumps in their stuffing. What feels at first like a small melon concealed in the seat soon feels like a full-grown football. The safest way to avoid these chairs is to pick out the ones that have been flossed up with silp covers, usually a symptom of advanced decay underneath, and sit somewhere else. If all the chairs have slip covers on them, there's always the floor.

Another kind of chair is the semi-collapsible—the one that has dried out in the joints. It deserves consideration. Do not grab it by the arms or the legs. They might come off. Show it the same courtesy that you would show an old lady.

It also is well to be wary of the fully collapsible chairs used at bridge tables and on porches—folding things flossed up to look dependable, but which nevertheless are capable of pinching off a finger or a pound of flesh without warning in a grapping match. Little did the cave man realize when he sat on a shelf of rock and dangled his feet what he was starting.

A contract was bowed to Turk's feelings and built around the fact that he was a cave man. The tree trunk now is 12 inches in diameter. Patrons hang their hats on the back of the chairs.

Some years ago while driving through the country, Turk saw a sapling washed out by rains and destined to die. He took the sapling home and set it out in the corner of his front yard. It flourished into a sizeable tree by the time Turk decided to build a restaurant on the site.

"I love trees," he said.

Family Tree Grows Through Roof

Love's Perilous Path

By ADOLF GARRISON

YES, we'd better think about leaving," Mr. "K." told Dicky, and I saw Philip Veritzen look at his own wrist watch.

"Adams or Miller ought to be bringing the freight elevator up in another minute," he said, "and you can be sure that the coast is clear down to the camouflaged entrance on the other street. Olsen is most efficient."

"Then, Dicky," the FBI man said, "I suppose we'd better gag those babies out there who appear to have gone to sleep."

He sent an appraising glance through the door to the living room which Philip turned back to us. "This isn't the prettiest sight in the world," he said. "We'll just close the door."

His eyes did not appear to see Philip Veritzen, but I knew he had seen the choleric expression in the eyes of the older man when he spoke his name.

"How about it, Phil?" he asked. "We could use you, but 'K' and I can manage."

"Of course I'm coming with you," the owner of the Lansfield said, and I knew that the ego of the great Broadway impresario had been seriously threatened by Dicky's involuntary relegation of him to the post of a sheltered "passenger," in our melodramatic expedition.

Glad to have you," Dicky said, and the instant the door had closed behind the three men, and Olga and I were left together.

"I am so glad Dicky said that," she said as soon as the door closed. Then she gave a sigh, a sound which I never hear from Olga.

"Philip does hate growing old so much," she said. "I don't mind it. I looked at her affectionately."

155 SAFE AFTER COAL MINE FIRE

By The Associated Press. ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan. 27. A full day-shift crew went down into the giant Willow Grove mine today, apparently undisturbed by a sudden fire which routed the night-force from the shaft where 72 men perished in a fire and explosion eight years ago. The night crew of 155 was caught 167 feet underground, and a mile from the elevator, when fire broke out last night in a narrow tunnel used to pump air into the mine. By most standards, it wasn't much of a fire, but "smoke" was being blown into the air tunnel, so we ordered the men out as a precautionary measure," a mine spokesman said. The grim-faced miners received word of the fire without visible emotion, and moved to the elevator shaft in orderly fashion, breaking silence now and then with a joke. Upon reaching the express type elevator, described by mine recovery boss Lawrence Higgins as "exactly like those extremely fast ones used in New York's Empire State building," the miners quietly awaited their turn to be shot to the surface. In a matter of minutes, the men, carried 20 at a time, were safe.

Stassen Seeks Handful Of Ohio Taft Delegates

By The Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Jan. 27.—Harold E. Stassen's campaign headquarters here girded today for a fight to take at least a "handful" of presidential delegates away from Ohio's U. S. Senator A. Taft in the Republican primary May 4, while the Taft forces pooh-poohed the threat, their statements showed it stung them. Earl E. Hart, Ohio manager for the former Minnesota governor, said he would announce Stassen delegates from the three congressional districts embracing greater Cleveland today or tomorrow. Declaring his organization was "ready for a fight in Ohio," Hart announced it would "have delegates in 10 congressional districts and one at large." That would mean 21 candidates for the 53 delegates to which Ohio is entitled.

An exchange of correspondence released by the White House, showed that Eccles will remain with the board as vice chairman.

Republican Committee Picks Board Member

At a special meeting of the Marion County Republican executive committee last night at Republican headquarters, Harold Patrick, Pleasant township farmer, was named a Republican member of the Marion county board of elections, for a four year term. He will succeed George Thomas of Prospect, whose second term will expire March 1. A resolution praising Gov. Thomas J. Herbert for the conduct of his first administration and endorsing his candidacy for a second term was passed by the 19 committeemen present. County Chairman Marion E. Minkins stated.

that the city engineer's office should have available records on installation of "taps" into the city sewer system. It was his understanding that there are no records of numerous sewer installations made in previous years on the city.

City Engineer Tom Catthers reported it was "not customary" to make a record of individual taps, the view being it was not a city obligation to keep such a record.

Herman M. Miller, fifth ward councilman reported that the council appointed committee to confer with the board of education relative to Harding stadium had not met with that body. Miller, with councilman Clarence Sargent, sixth ward and Mr. Cunningham, had been appointed at the previous council meeting to confer with the board of education relative to opening up Harding Stadium to football teams other than Harding and St. Mary.

Miller said a member of the board referred him to the Harding athletic committee as the group empowered to make any ruling on the use of the stadium. This group Miller said had no desire to meet with the council committee. He added that he was informed of this by a member of the Athletic committee which comprises Dewey Boyher, E. Paul Huffman, James H. Smith, and coaches William "Pete" Howison and Kenneth Somerlot.

HOLT HONORED AT BANQUET

Retiring School Superintendent, Wife, Guests of Marion Education Association.

E. E. Holt, superintendent of Marion city schools who will leave Feb. 1 to assume similar duties in Springfield, and Mrs. Holt were honored guests at the annual banquet of the Marion Education Association held last night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. Guest speaker was John E. Dolibois, executive secretary of the Miami University Alumni association at Oxford, O.

One hundred and eighty persons were present, including faculty members, their wives and husbands, retired teachers, board of education members and their wives.

Clark Fouts, president of the Marion Education Association and principal of Silver Street school, presided as toastmaster and welcomed all teachers and guests present. A letter of regret from Lester L. Dickey of Painesville, who will take over duties as superintendent here Feb. 1, that he was unable to be present for the banquet was read.

Mr. Holt gave his farewell talk to the teachers and reminisced over the years he has been here working with the teachers of Marion. During the dinner hour the invocation was given by W. E. Orcutt, principal of Central Junior High school, group singing was led by Miss Elizabeth Edgar, and the girls' ensemble from Harding High school, directed by L. G. Jones, sang a group of numbers.

Tells of Nuremberg Trials. Mr. Dolibois, who served as an interrogator at the Nuremberg trials, told of his experiences in this work. Speaking the German language fluently, Mr. Dolibois said he was placed in the military intelligence division after joining the Army in World War II. He was then assigned as an interrogator of prisoners of war. He trained people in this type of work in the United States prior to going to Germany. Mr. Dolibois said he asked questions of three different groups of prisoners of war, the German military group, the group leaders of concentration camps and the statesmen of Germany.

Gifts Presented. Mr. Holt, before the banquet last night, received as a farewell gift from the faculty of Marion schools a life membership in the National Education association. At the banquet, Mrs. Holt was presented a corsage of orchids from the group. Retired teachers present included Mrs. Nellie Irey, Miss Mary Curd and Mrs. John Turner. Four members of the board of education and their wives were also present. They were Mr. and Mrs. E. Paul Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Torrance and Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Brickley Jr.

Tables were decorated with small dolls, some dressed as college professors, farmers, dancers and other types of people, and silver branches. A large showman was placed on the piano. The centerpiece for the speaker's table was a bowl of white chrysanthemums and dark green candles in crystal holders, completed the decorations. Miss Audrey Bolander was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. William Wiley was chairman of the gift committee.

Congress Considers Ban on Oil Export

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Senate and house today weighed separate proposals to stop all oil exports by law while a fuel shortage exists in this country. Simultaneously a senate committee suggested the state fix new low speed driving limits similar to the 35-mile-an-hour wartime limitation, to save gasoline.

A one-year ban on exports of oil into effect under a bill introduced last night by Senator Bridges (R-NH) declaring himself "disgusted" with what he termed failure of the administration to help New England and other fuel oil shortage areas. Bridges asserted that the time has come for "direct action" by congress.

Against Marshall Plan

By The United Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins (R-Ohio) told congress today that he will have nothing to do with the Marshall plan in its present form and urged establishment by congress of a bi-partisan board to survey Europe's needs before deciding on future appropriations.

Barring military emergencies, the Ironton, O., representative said, the task of aiding Europe should be completed in three years at a "total outlay of not more than three or four billion dollars."

"Nobody knows exactly what the Marshall plan is," Jenkins told the house.

STASSEN CAMPAIGNS IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

By The Associated Press. MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 27.—Harold E. Stassen swung into New Hampshire today in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, frankly admitting he was angling for Eisenhower votes.

The former Minnesota governor headed into the Granite state a few hours after telling a news conference Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) tried to "persuade" him at a Washington hotel conference Saturday night to stay out of the Ohio Republican presidential primary.

He quoted Taft as saying he "didn't think it advisable from either his standpoint or my standpoint to contest the Ohio primary."

Stassen said there was no discussion on his running on the same ticket with Taft, and the Minnesota replied that he had "no comment" when a reporter asked if the Ohio senator made "any threats to you as to your future in the Republican party."

The hotel conference, he said, was arranged by Senators McCarty (R-Wis) on Taft's invitation. Stassen told newsmen he had made arrangements to confer with former New Hampshire supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in hope of getting them to climb onto his bandwagon.

Any serious discrepancy between current parity rates for the pound and "soft" currencies and that of cross-rate quotations with the Dollar in Paris inevitably will create new economic strains. ASK TRUMAN REVIEW OF ARMY CONVICTION

By The Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Jan. 27.—A civic legal committee today planned a personal appeal to President Truman to intervene in the case of Pvt. Thomas A. Gusk, 18-year-old Clevelandan whose life sentence for slaying two Italians has been reduced to 16 years at hard labor. An Army review board which recommended the court martial conviction of the youth yesterday announced the reduction of the original sentence.

Gusk was charged with participating in the killing of two Italians in Leghorn, Italy, last August. Indignation was expressed by members of the civic legal committee who appeared before the Army review board to plead for the youth.

In a statement the 11-member committee declared: "Tom Gusk is being crucified by the Army with this face-saving decision in total disregard of the facts and law. . . . The Army has committed a gross injustice and we must appeal immediately to the President of the United States to do justice. We will immediately seek his intervention in this case of cold-blooded persecution by the Army."

"We challenge the Army to produce to the people of greater Cleveland and the United States any evidence to support their finding that Gusk shot anyone. Two other persons fired at the same time as this youth, no proof has been given that his bullets hit anybody."

"This should prove to the people of America the urgent need for immediate reform in the present court martial system. This is a disgrace upon the history of jurisprudence in the United States."

Cleveland's city council acted under suspension of the rules and passed unanimously an emergency resolution requesting President Truman "to immediately review" the Gusk case.

THE Columbus West Cowboys' chief rope artist, guard Jack Thruway, who pushed eight field goals through Harding's ropes to lead West to a 52-38 win Dec. 20, will play his last high school game Friday when the Prexies journey to Columbus to meet the Cowboys in a return engagement. Jack graduates Wednesday but is eligible to play for the Cowboys until classes convene Feb. 3. Not only is he hot on the hardwoods, but he is a three letter winner in basketball and ditto in football and is in great demand among scores of the nation's colleges. That's one bird the Prexies wish had already flown the coop.

WITH PLEASANT in firm possession of the county league championship, having finished their season undefeated, play in the 12-school loop during the two remaining weeks of the schedule will be a scramble for runner-up and show positions. . . . Caledonia in second place with an 8-1 record, meets fourth-place Meeker Friday and closes the season with Prospect. The Donians are slight favorites to take both contests and grab the place position in the loop race. . . . Morral meets Martel Friday and rounds out the season with Waldo. Coach Norman Weston thinks his Morral quintet can win these two games and finish the season where they are now—in third place. The fourth spot, however, is in dispute. Meeker and LaRue are tied for that position now and the game between the two teams will probably settle the matter. LaRue faces Prospect tonight and Claridon Friday. After the crucial game with Caledonia, Meeker takes on Claridon, Feb. 6.

MARION COUNTY'S giant killers, Caledonia, will meet another David in Caledonia tomorrow night in a March Dimes benefit basketball game on the Cardington court. . . . The Cardington Pirates have won over Pleasant (Marion county champs), Lexington (leading the Richland county league), and Ashley (leading Delaware county). . . . Caledonia has won over Ashley, Grove City (Franklin county leaders), and Edison (Morrow leaders). The Pirates have won 12 out of 15 encounters and the last 11 games, their latest victim being Claridon 59-29, last night. . . . Tomorrow night's benefit card starts with a reserve game at 7:30.

Middies Favored to Annex Another Crown

Defending Class A Champions Shade Hamilton for Season's Eleventh Win

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 27—Middletown's mighty Middies, state Class A scholastic cage champs three of the last four years, rolled along today with their 11th straight conquest of the campaign and their 18th in a row over a two-year span.

But the 3,800 fans who saw the champs squeeze by Hamilton's Big Blue, 34-32 on the Miami university gym last week, have a hunch the Middies were lucky to pull that rough-and-tumble fray out of the fire.

Like all Hamilton-Middletown scraps, this one was a thriller. In their last four engagements, the Middies have beaten the Middies twice by a single point, and Middletown has won twice by two points. The champs came from far behind to keep their string intact, overcoming a 10-point second quarter deficit, and a nine-point edge in the third with 45 seconds to go.

Shelby Linville, Middletown's All-Ohio star, was held to five points, and high-counting George McCheyney, who paced the champs through last season's tourney race, garnered only a free throw as Hamilton threw a stalwart defense against the title holders.

Too Tough
Coach Paul Walker of the Middies, noting the 34 fouls called in the contest, told the officials at the half the game was too rough and that "we should play our football in October and November, not in January."

The clubs tangle again Feb. 27 at Oxford, and Walker said "if the next one gets as rough as this one I'll pull my boys out and put in the second string. With tournament time right behind that game, that kind of play will get the boys hurt, doggonit!"

Findlay kept a notch ahead of the champs, winning its 13th straight over Tiffin Columbian 67-30, the subs taking over after the varsity piled up a 34-8 half-time edge. Other unbeaten Class A clubs include Mansfield Madison (12), Ashland (11), Salem (10), and Akron Garfield and Cleveland St. Ignatus (9).

Facing Class B
Glenford, among the host of teams which found its weekend game erased by the heavy snow, paced the Class B pack with 21 wins in a row. Other undefeated Class B quintets included Salem Township of Wyandot county, and Warsaw (15); Middlepoint, Enon, Bremen and Carbon Hill (14); and Newton (13). Once-defeated teams expected to cut a figure in the tourney race are Rockford (16-1); Lima St. Rose and Waverly (15-1); Minster (14-1); New Knoxville and North Baltimore (13-1); Wheelersburg (12-1); Toronto (11-1) and Massillon (8-1). Rockford, Toronto and North Baltimore felt defeat for the first time last week. Probably the week's biggest upset was the 43-33 defeat pinned on Toronto by East Liverpool, runner-up for last year's Class A championship, which has had a far from impressive season.

Gentleman Farmer Larry MacPhail Swears He's Through with Baseball

By The Associated Press
BEL AIR, MD., Jan. 27—Larry MacPhail, living the life of a gentleman farmer on his magnificent 800-acre estate near here, swears he never will return to baseball.

"Nineteen years of working 12 to 18 hours a day is enough," declared the former boss of the Yankees as he surveyed the setting sun through the picture window of his vast living room. "I'm through, and you can bet your last dollar on that."

The former stormy petrel of baseball, who received a check for $2,000,000 for his Yankee interest last October, expects to clear as much money breeding and selling Aberdeen Angus cattle as he could running a ball club, and to have a lot more fun in the process.

"Why should I go on taking a beating in baseball when I can live like this?" Larry asked reasonably. "There are a lot of steaks in the frozen food locker downstairs, and more where they came from. The swimming pool is great in the hot weather, and by next summer we'll have a two-acre lake stocked with fish."

Not Mad at Anyone
Rather disappointingly the man who thrived on feuds during his years in the game and went out punching—literally—seems not to be mad at anybody any more.

Only one thing he wants made clear: that he quit the Yanks voluntarily after the last World Series, and wasn't shoved. "I already had disposed of most of my Yankee interests," he disclosed. "Then I heard that one of my partners, Del Webb, had remarked that I had done well paid for what I had done with the Yanks. That was a little too much. I happened to feel that Webb had been extremely well paid for the investment I had enabled him to make in the club."

MacPhail insists he has only kind thoughts of Commissioner A. B. Chandler, his sparring partner of last spring. He adds that, actually, only one big league owner is so dead set against Chandler that he wants to buy up his contract and get him out of there.

He's Got Rabbit Ears
"There's nothing the matter with Happy except that he's got rabbit ears," Larry observed. "He can hear criticism a city block. Once he gets over that he'll be a good administrator."

"Know why he threw the book at Leo Durocher last year? I think, personally, that it was because he had just read a magazine piece blasting him (Chandler) and saying he wasn't as tough as Judge Landis had been. There wasn't any other reason for it," MacPhail recalled with some of there.

ST. MARY, MORRAL IN CAGE CLASH TONIGHT

The Irish of St. Mary will be putting a six game winning streak on the line tonight when they tangle with the dangerous floor-men from Morral on the Morral court.

St. Mary will have nothing at stake in league competition, however, as Morral plays in the county league and the Irish in the Mid-State.

In all games played, the Irish now stand with 11 wins and three losses.

Morral now ranks third in the county league with a seven win and two loss record. Pleasant, who will engage the Irish on Feb. 3, won the league crown Saturday night when they outlasted the Morral men in a close battle, winning by a 36-34 count.

Morral's starting five for the contest tonight will be Dick Granlee and Merle Hilborn at forwards, both consistent point-getters; Jim Weston at center, with 38 points in league play thus far this season, and Fred McComber and Dick Baer at the guard spots. Both McComber and Baer do a lot of scoring for guards, making a well rounded scoring machine of the Morral cagers. Granlee with 96 points tops the five in points garnered, while the team as a whole has made 590 fouls to 274 for all opponents in the league.

The curtain raiser tonight will pit the St. Mary Reserves against the Jayvees of Morral, to start at 7:30.

CARROLL'S, FEEDS, MERCHANTS WIN AT Y

Carroll's Jewelry and Smith's Clothing played the closest game of the three played at the Y.M.C.A. last night in the Monday night league, with Carroll's taking the verdict 50-40. Smith's put up a stiff battle with Roseberry putting 14 points, while Fields paced the winners with 23 markers. This is the first win for Carroll's in the second round.

The Marion Merchants won an easy victory over Green Camp with Jim Cusick grabbing 20 counters, 43-28, while Hedges paced the losers with nine points.

In the final contest of the evening's play, McMillen thumped Hensel 58-44 as Wintersteller kept his high-scoring pace set in the first round, with 21 points. Hensel Brothers was paced by W. Hensel, who got 16 points on eight field goals.

Butler Takes Buckeyes, Toledo Upsets Loyola, Defiance Wins

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 27—Ohio college basketball quintets improved their overall record against non-Ohio quintets last night, although Butler's pint-sized marksmen took Ohio State into camp, 37-47.

The Buckeye defeat—seventh in a dozen games—was the only blot on the Monday night record.

Toledo, setting up a tight zone, scored its 13th win in 16 starts, with 23, and Pat Milligan, with 20 points. Dave Bell hit 24 for Kenyon, while Eppa Rixey came through with 21.

No-Hit Pitcher Black Signs with Indians
By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Jan. 27—Doc Black, who fashoned one of the two no-hit games hurled in the American league last year, has signed his 1948 contract, the Cleveland Indians front office announced today.

Terms of the agreement were not announced, but a Tribes spokesman said the 29-year-old right hander received an increase over last season.

The former Philadelphia Athletics castoff, after joining Alcoa's Anonymous, was given a chance to remain in the major leagues by Tribe president Bill Veeck.

He reached the peak of the comeback trail July 10 when he hurled his no-hitter against his former Philadelphia teammates. He appeared in 30 games last year, winning 10 and losing 12. In four of his setbacks, the Indians were shut out.

The Indians now have signed 17 of 37 players.

TIGERS BUY SLUGGER

DETROIT, Jan. 27—The Detroit Tigers, still striving to find a slugger to replace Hank Greenberg, today announced the purchase of first baseman Paul Campbell, 30-year-old southpaw of the Louisville Colonels. Campbell hit .304 last year for the American Association team.

His own suggestions came to me in laconic, pencilled or pen-and-ink notes on small sheets of White House stationery. Undated, they would read like this:

FIGURED IN ESCAPE—Charged with aiding and concealing an escaped Nazi prisoner of war, Miss Gloria Sammartino, 25, Boston, is shown in the St. Louis federal court. The prisoner, George R. von Hyeburg, who fled from Ft. Devens, Mass., while working in a hospital, was recently nabbed by the FBI. Miss Sammartino, it was said, had fallen in love with him when they met at a hospital. Fear of revealing his identity kept them from marriage.

CRAWFORD CO. TRIAL OF MARION MEN CONTINUED

The case of the three Marion men who were to go on trial today in Crawford county common pleas court on charges arising from strike activity at Gallion, has been continued until March 2. Thomas C. Fetter, counsel for the defendants, said today.
The men are Richard C. Gibson, 28, of 392 Owens street, James A. Wilson, 29, of 361 Clinton street and Walter E. Foust, 30, of near Marion.
They were indicted by the Crawford county grand jury Oct. 31 on charges of assault and battery, assault, kidnapping, use of a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and grand larceny.
Charges arose from an incident Oct. 22 in Gallion during the 74-day strike of the CIO Auto Workers at the North Electric Manufacturing company. The men are accused of kidnapping two company employees in a company truck.

BEFORE MR. ROOSEVELT became president, I always called him "Franklin." Afterwards I called him "Mr. President" because, for one reason, when I saw him he was so often with other people. But even when we were alone I addressed him as "Mr. President," although we had few occasions to use titles. He always called me "Cordell" both before and after becoming president.
The President visited the state department only once. He came to the department after hours to look over offices on an upper floor to be used by some of his "anonymous assistants."
More than once I suggested to the President that he call in former President Hoover for conference on certain subjects such as the food situation abroad. I myself had no hesitation in conferring with my predecessor, Mr. Stimson, and I received valuable assistance from him, particularly in connection with trade agreements legislation. But the President and Hoover's relations had become embittered, with the result that the former never invited the latter to the White House.
I myself conferred with Hoover informally a number of times, though not officially at the state department. Our conversations took place, on Hoover's suggestion, at the home of former Under Secretary of State William Castle, and I reported on them to the President. Hoover manifested the liveliest interest in public affairs. As to whether his extreme hostility toward Roosevelt gave a more bitter tinge to his partisanship I could not say. At any rate, it was a two-way hostility.

SOME OF THE EXTREME left fringe people kept the President stirred up from time to time about the state department. It was not Mr. Roosevelt himself who had difficulty with the state department; it was a few of the left fringe who got to him and protested at times because I did not take orders from them. From complaining now and then about a "leak" in the department, he never made a remark to me about "hating" the state department, as one or two persons have later alleged. He knew that I and the officers of the department initiated the preparation of, or fulfilled his requests for, the first drafts of most of his speeches.

Marion Camera Club Has Second Meeting

Plans were made to draw up a charter this week at the second meeting of the newly-organized Camera club held Monday night in the reading room at the Y.M.C.A. Twenty persons were present, both men and women, including members of the Camera club which was in existence in Marion prior to the war, and others who are interested in establishing a new club.
Named on a committee to draw up the charter are Frank Kochensperger, chairman, W. R. Reichenstein and Charles Aronhalt. Both Mr. Kochensperger and Mr. Reichenstein are members of the old camera club. Plans were discussed for establishing a permanent club room where a dark room and studio can be installed for use by the club. It was decided to hold meetings in the reading room at the Y.M.C.A. each Monday night at 8 o'clock. Following the meeting, a large group of salon prints were exhibited by Mr. Kochensperger.
At the next meeting the charter will be presented and discussed and election of officers will be held. Membership in the club is open to both men and women of all ages interested in photographic work. Field trips and lectures will be among the future activities of the club.

It is estimated there are 65 million people in the French colonial empire.

PASTOR CONVENTION OPENS SECOND DAY

Richard Howard of Marion Named Committee Head.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 27—The Ohio pastors convention entered its second day with traditional talks designed to amplify the central theme: "What Protestants Believe, and Why."
Three divinity school representatives and a missionary, who spent 47 years in India, spoke on yesterday's opening program.
The missionary, Dr. Sam Higginbottom, told an estimated 2,500 conferees Christianity is the only religion offering the world "peace and goodwill to men."
Churches today, he warned, "better get on the job, or it will be worse in the world."
Dr. E. G. Honnighausen of the Princeton divinity school asserted the Protestant church "may need reforming now, in the face of a new day."

"The issue that faced Luther is still with us," he added.
Dr. Harold A. Bosley, dean of Duke university's divinity school, saw a changed life and recreated society as an aim of religion.
Dr. Harold E. Lucbeck, of Yale, urged "devotion to human survival" because if we quarrel over $20,000,000,000 for European reconstruction, as many politicians are doing, we will make the blunder of the century.
Louis J. Taber of Columbus, a former National Grange master was elected to a seven term as president of the Ohio Council of Churches last night.
Vice presidents reelected were Clarence D. Laylin of Columbus, Rev. Harold F. Carr of Lakewood, and Rev. Harold Cooke Phillips of Cleveland. Charles F. Johnson of Columbus was named treasurer and administrative chairman.
Other department chairmen named include, Richard Howard of Marion, youth committee.

DEFIES BLIZZARD—An "inner fire" keeps him warm, says Raymond Duncan, 73, poet-philosopher brother of the late Isadore Duncan, who arrived in blizzard-stricken New York from Paris clad, as usual, in toga and sandals. Ohioan Lays Claim To Contested Estate

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Jan. 27—Dr. Edwin J. Pettit, of Cuyahoga Falls, O., has filed a claim to the $300,000 estate of Mathilde Molabarger, whose will three men are accused of forging.
Pettit appeared in surrogate's court yesterday and said he was a half-brother of the elderly spinster. His mother, the late Mrs. Isabella M. Pettit, also was Miss Molabarger's mother, the Ohioan said. Three German relatives also are contesting the will.
The three men indicted for forgery in connection with the will are Fred Lash, an undertaker, who was named executor in the will; Fred Dresel, superintendent of the apartment in which the spinster lived, and Bernardino Mastrorosso, a lawyer.
The district attorney's office ordered Miss Molabarger's body exhumed after the investigation of the will and said that a lethal dose of barbiturate acid was found in her organs.

What's Ahead for Palestine

First Big Showdown Set For April in Palestine Situation

By MAX HARRELSON
Associated Press Writer
(Second of a series of articles)

In implementing the plan to partition Palestine, the United Nations may strike the first snag as early as Feb. 1.

That is the date fixed by the general assembly for Britain to make available a major part and a sizeable hinterland for the Jews to begin large-scale immigration.

Britain has not said officially whether she will meet this deadline, and a government spokesman in London recently indicated she would not.

The British spokesman said Britain would continue the present immigration quota of 1,500 a month until the mandate is terminated May 15.

While it is generally agreed that the immigration question is a vital issue in the partition scheme, most delegates feel that failure of the British to meet the U. N. timetable would not provoke a major crisis.

April 1 is the date expected to bring the first major showdown. That date is important for two reasons:

1. The security council must act if the commission has not set up provisional government of the proposed countries by then.
2. The Palestine commission itself is directed to set up an economic union if the provisional governments have not done so by April 1.

The present Arab attitude makes it possible that the council and the commission may have to try to put these two phases of the partition plan into effect over Arab defiance.

This situation is complicated further by Britain not terminating her mandate until May 15. She does not want the U. N. commission to arrive until shortly before that time.

The U. N. timetable, calling for establishment of the two independent countries by Oct. 1, makes it urgent that provisional governments be ready to function April 1.

NEWCOMERS: A group of newly-arrived Jewish immigrants in Palestine. Immigration is a big factor in the controversy.

This would allow a maximum of four months for the establishment of administrative staffs and security forces in the two countries by Aug. 1, the date Britain has set for the completion of her withdrawal. Most officials say even four months is too short to set up and train the necessary forces.

The big question, however, is how can the U. N. set up either a provisional government, an Arab security force or the proposed economic union if the Arabs refuse to cooperate. These are all specific obligations of the Palestine commission and the Security Council. Their main task is to find a way to carry them out.

(Next Article: Strong Arab Resistance to U. N. Partition Plans)

Schedule of UN Action on Palestine

Here is the timetable of the United Nations plan on Palestine:

Nov. 29, 1947—General assembly in New York adopted partition plan by vote of 33 to 13 with two-thirds majority needed for approval.

Nov. 29, 1947, to Oct. 1, 1948—Palestine "Transitional period" fixed by assembly's resolution.

Feb. 1, 1948—Deadline set for evacuation by British mandate government of a seaport and hinterland area in projected Jewish nation to provide for "substantial immigration."

April 1—Deadline for establishment of provisional councils of government for the projected Jewish and Arab nations (if either does not establish such a council, the U. N. Palestine commission will notify the security council and the secretary-general at Lake Success). Deadline for starting work on economic and transit union by Jewish and Arab councils (a joint economic board will have three representatives from each of the two projected nations and three foreign members appointed by the U. N. economic and social council, but if the Jewish and Arab councils do not name representatives, the plan will be put in force by the U. N. Palestine commission.)

April 29—Deadline for U. N. trusteeship council's presentation of Jerusalem under U. N. administration.

May 1—Date suggested by British government for arrival of U. N. Palestine commission.

May 15—Date suggested by British colonial office for ending Palestine mandate.

Aug. 1—Completion of British withdrawal from Palestine.

Aug. 1 to Oct. 1—Elections to Jewish and Arab constituent assemblies by democratic processes some time in the two-month period.

Before Oct. 1—Declaration to United Nations from the Jewish and Arab provisional governments succeeding the interim councils of government.

Oct. 1—Independence day for Jewish and Arab nations; trusteeship council's statute for Jerusalem becomes effective.

Revival Services Continue at Martel

Special revival services in the Martel Methodist church are continuing this week with Rev. Howard Hammer of Cardington preaching. Rev. C. H. Edgar, pastor, is in charge of song services, and Mrs. Walter Black and Mrs. Cloyd Rice are planning special numbers for each service. Mrs. Elma Downs is pianist. The services began last week. Those who presented special music at various services include Wilma Leathem and Betty and Joyce Roesch, Rev. Clarence Lyon, pastor of the Clyde Reformed church, Rev. Edgar, and members of the choir of the Clyde Reformed church, Mrs. James McKinstry, Mrs. Myron Glathart, Mrs. Ina Wisch, Mrs. Carrie Kennelly, Henry Baldinger and Mrs. Wilbur Holtsberry, accompanist. Rev. Lyon preached the sermon at the opening service. Because of the special services continuing through next Sunday, the Youth Fellowship will not meet until two weeks following. A potluck dinner was held by the Fellowship at the last meeting, and lesson study was in charge of Romalene Shar-rock. Plans are being made by members to attend a meeting at Kirkpatrick Feb. 9. The revival services are each evening at 7:45 and are open to the public, it was announced.

Check Made On Unlicensed Dogs

Harry V. Mounts, Marion county auditor, reports records of dog license sales are being completed prior to forwarding to the county dog warden. This is done yearly so the dog warden may investigate cases in which dogs were licensed in the county last year and not licensed this year. The warden then determines if each dog is still alive and in the county, and the cause of its not being relicensed.

Dog Warden William Warner caught and impounded 28 dogs during the week ending Jan. 24. Of this number 11 were sold and 15 disposed of by the warden.
